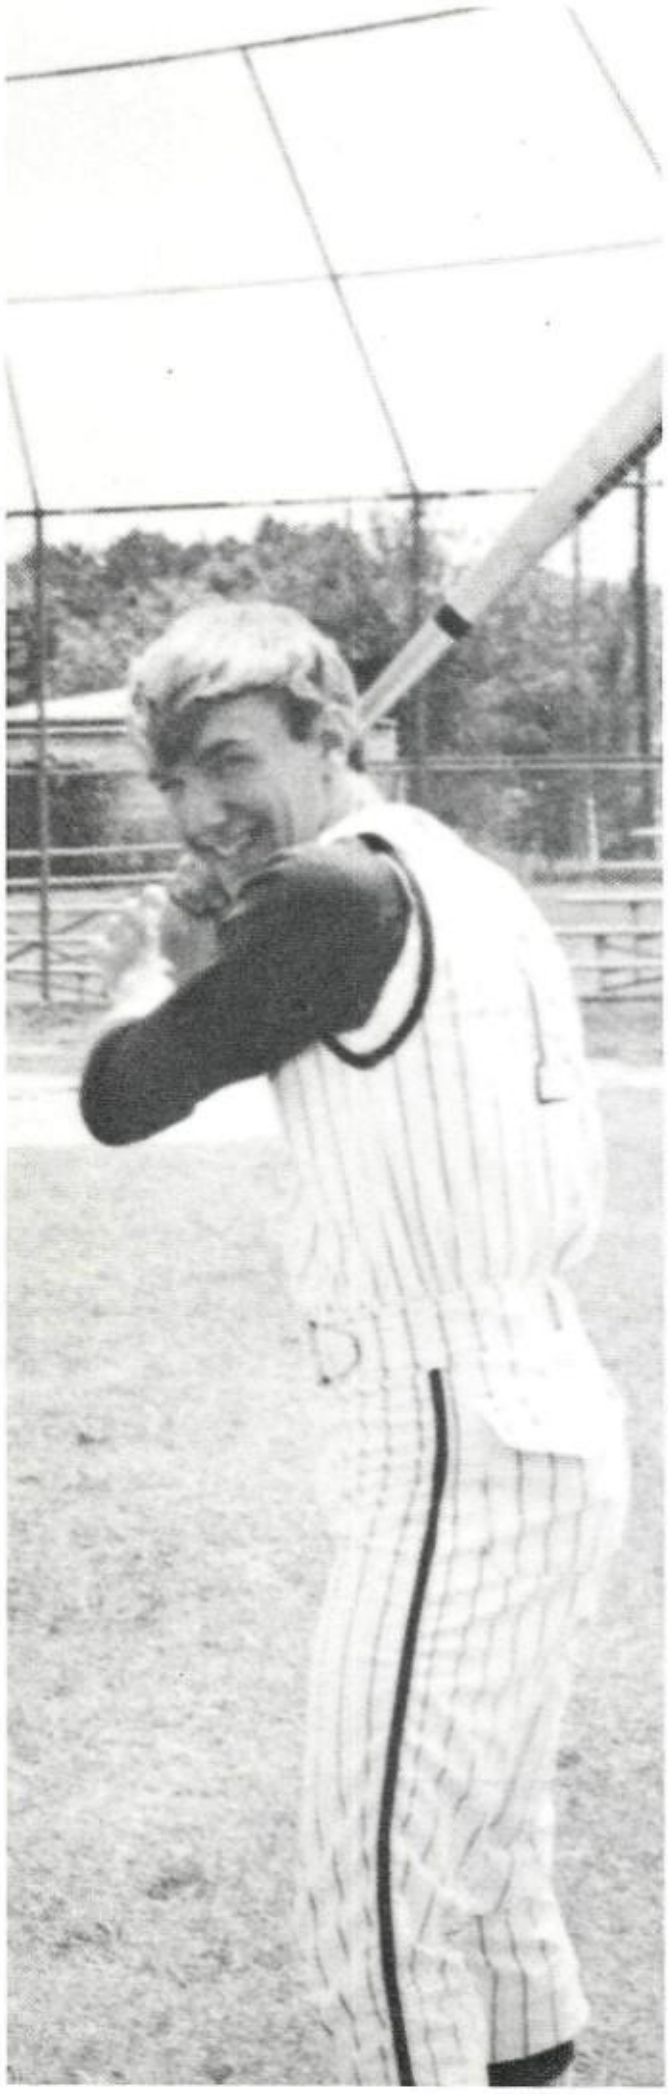
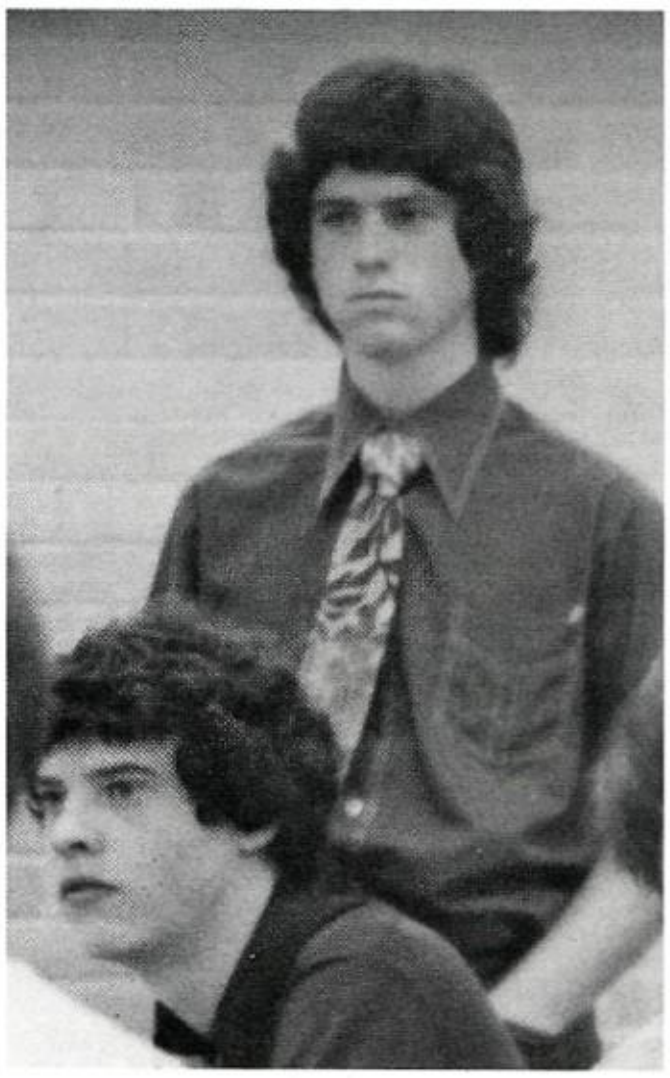
SPRING . . .



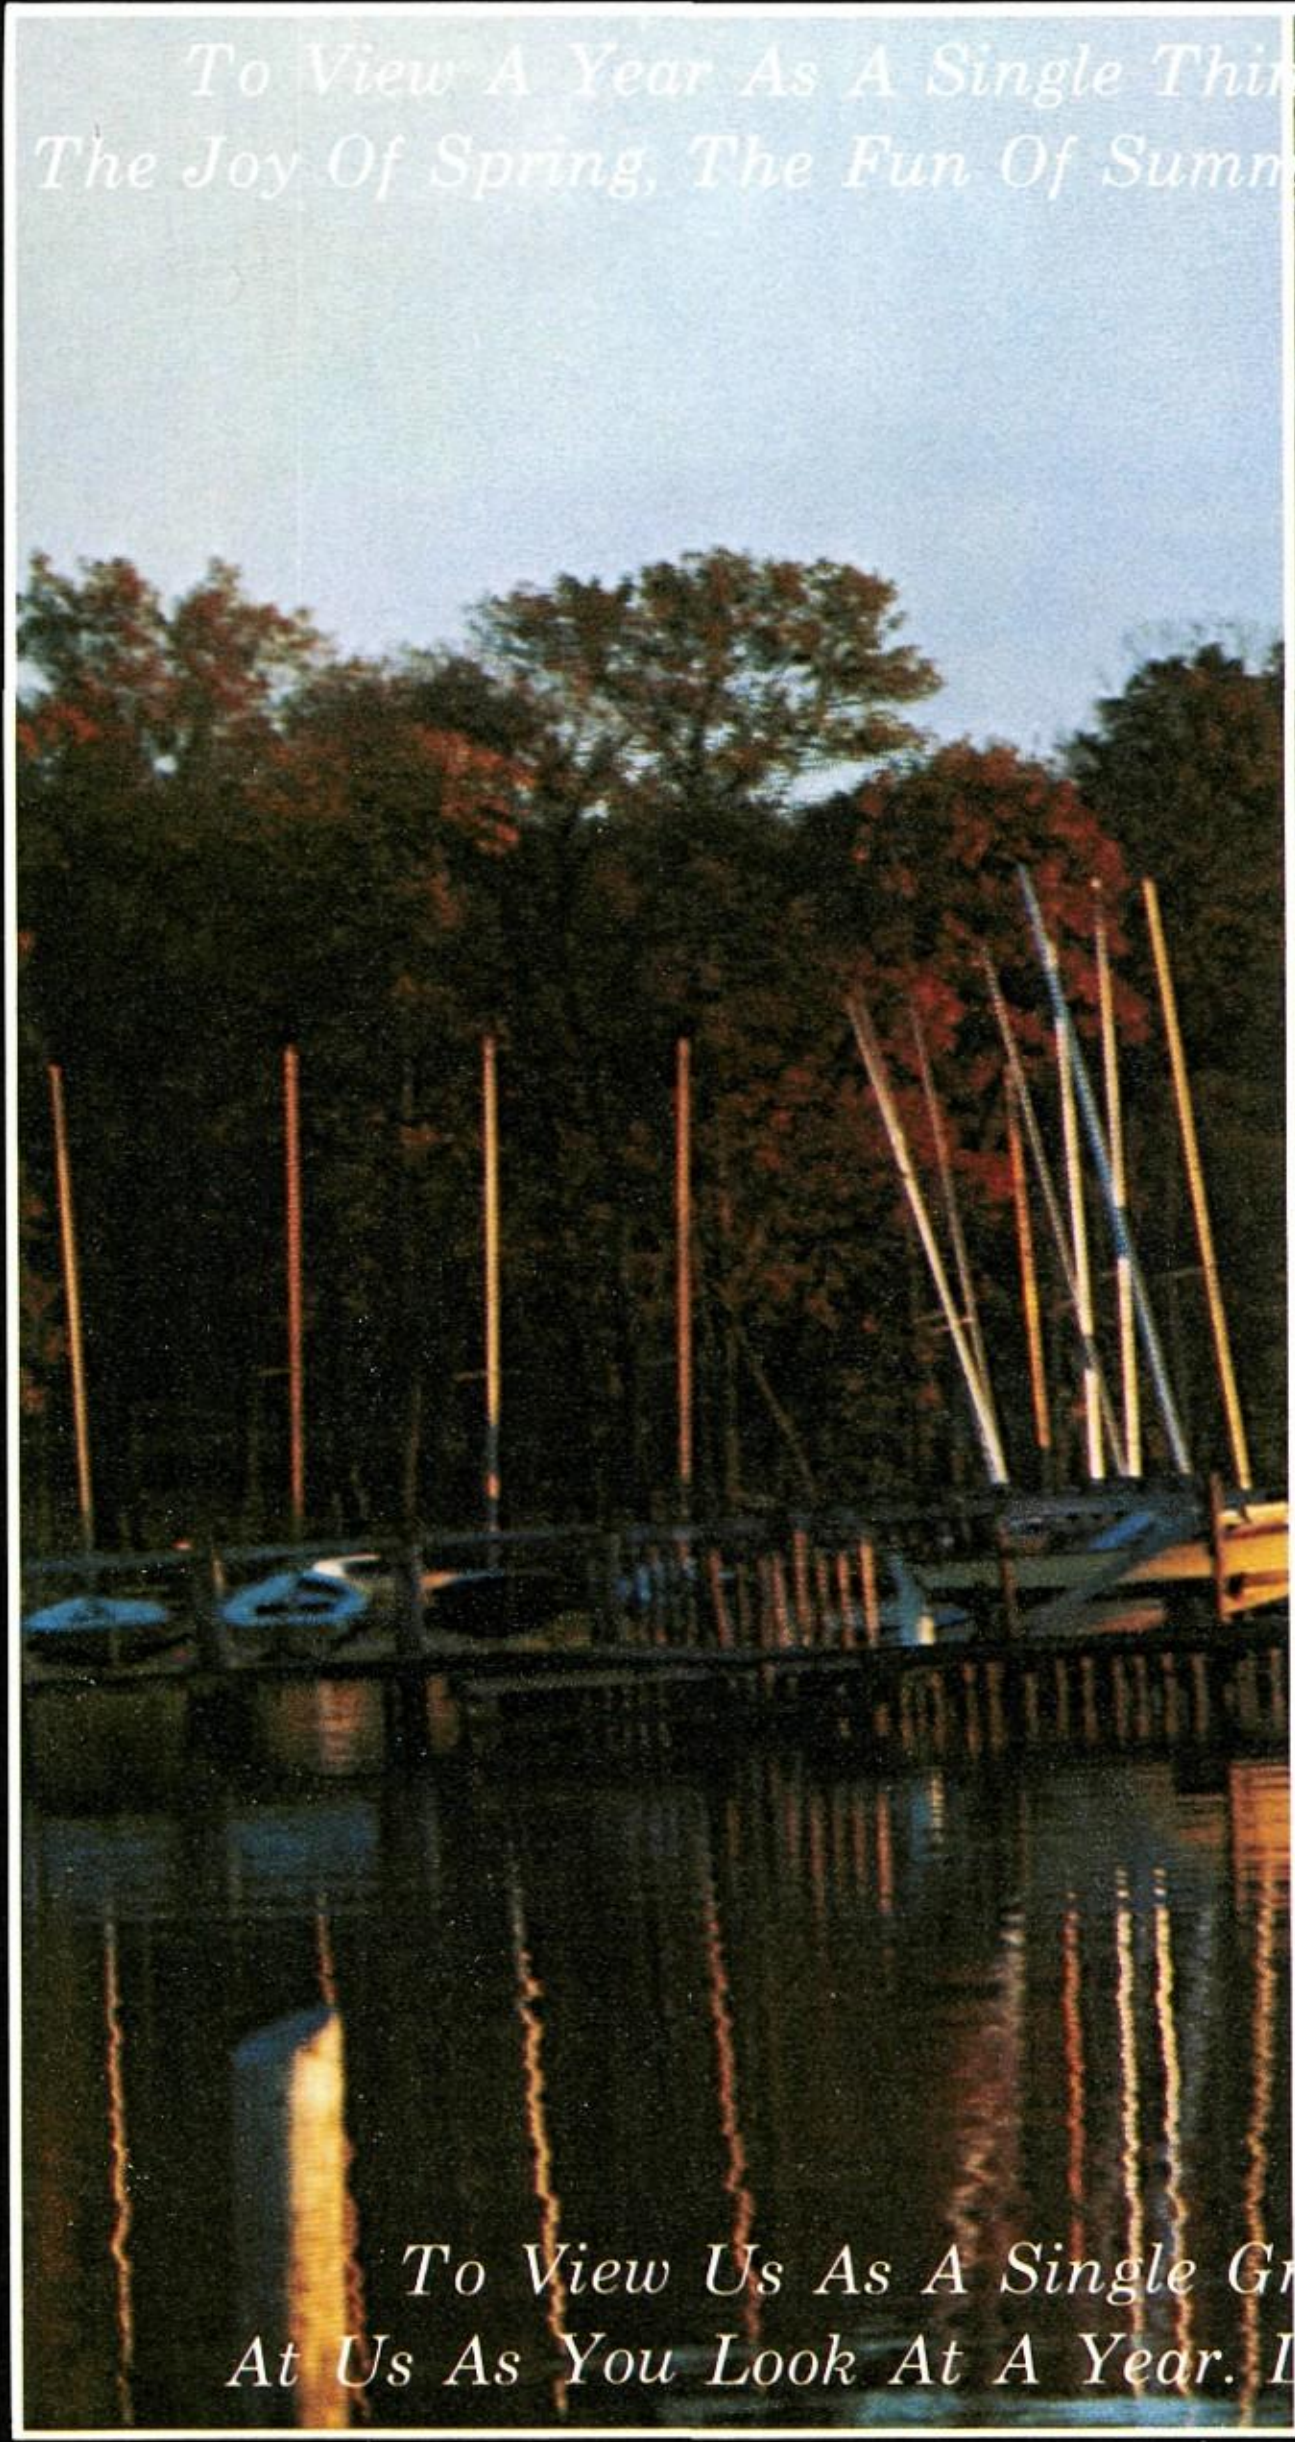
Yummie, Really had a blast with ya in all our classes! Miss ya! Love Karen K.

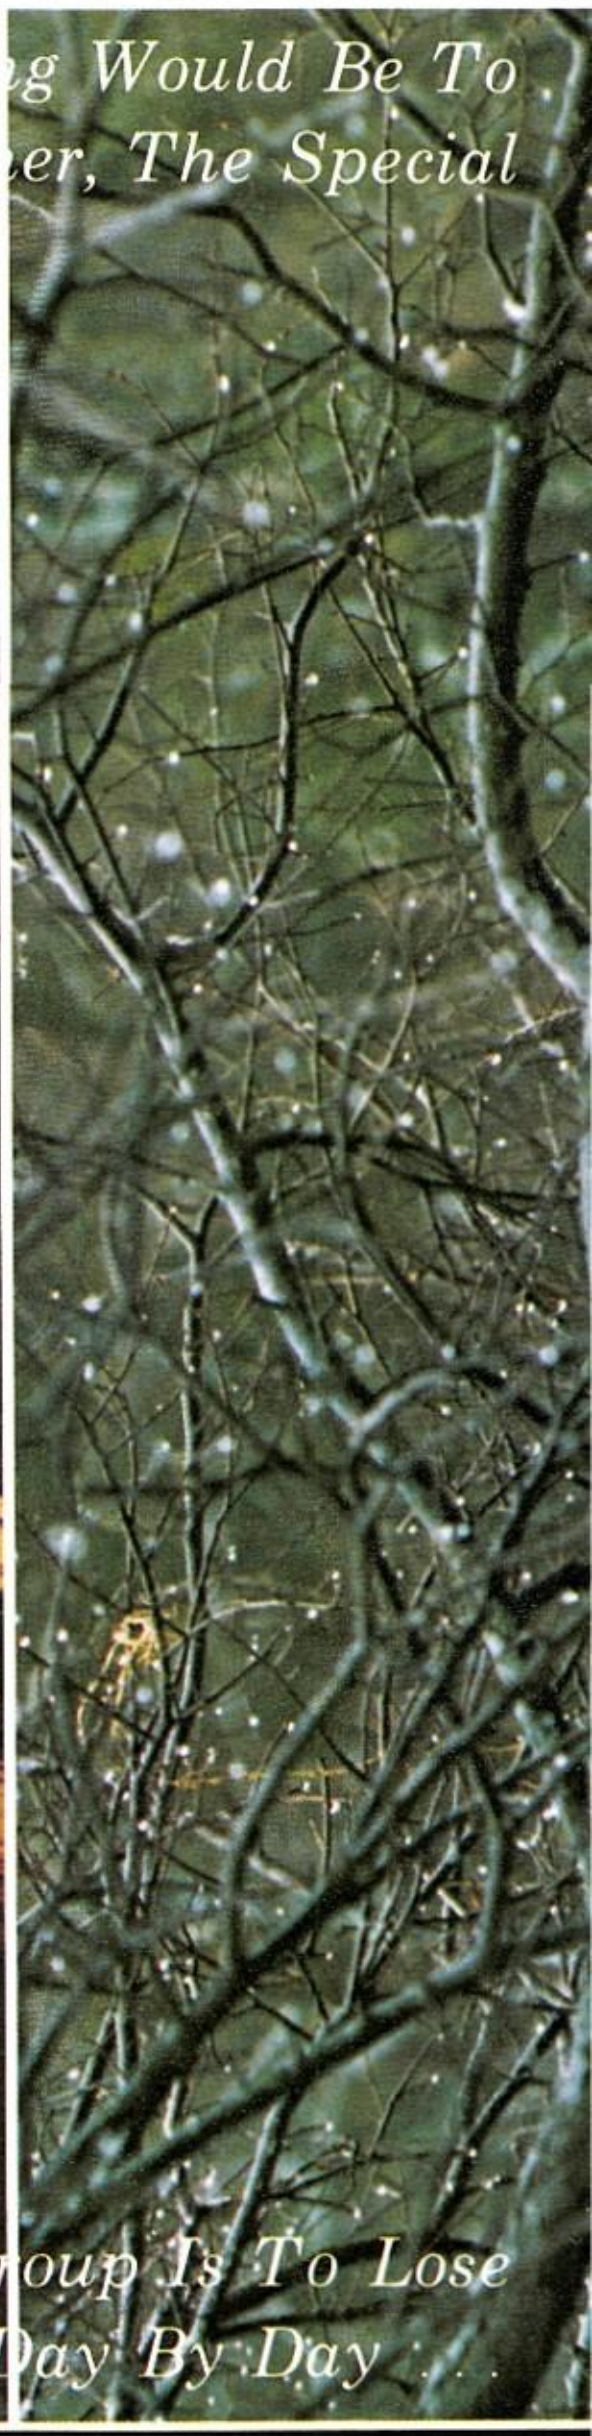
Yummie! We sure gonna miss ya this year. Love, Candy Lee

. . . A TIME TO END



To View A Year As A Single Thing Would Be To The Joy Of Spring, The Fun Of Summer, The Special





To View Us As A Single Group Is To Lose At Us As You Look At A Year. Day By Day . . .

Lose The Glory Of Fall, The Solitude Of Winter,
Moments Each Year Holds. We Are The Same
The Friendship And Love Of Each Of Us. Look
Person By Person . . . Friend To Friend.

To all the years ones

Hi Y'summer,
We had a great time
last year in Dance Class
I sure wish you were here
this year cause I know we would have even a greater time
I was really glad we became good friends, and I'll always keep smiling. Remember Forever. Be sweet and See ya!
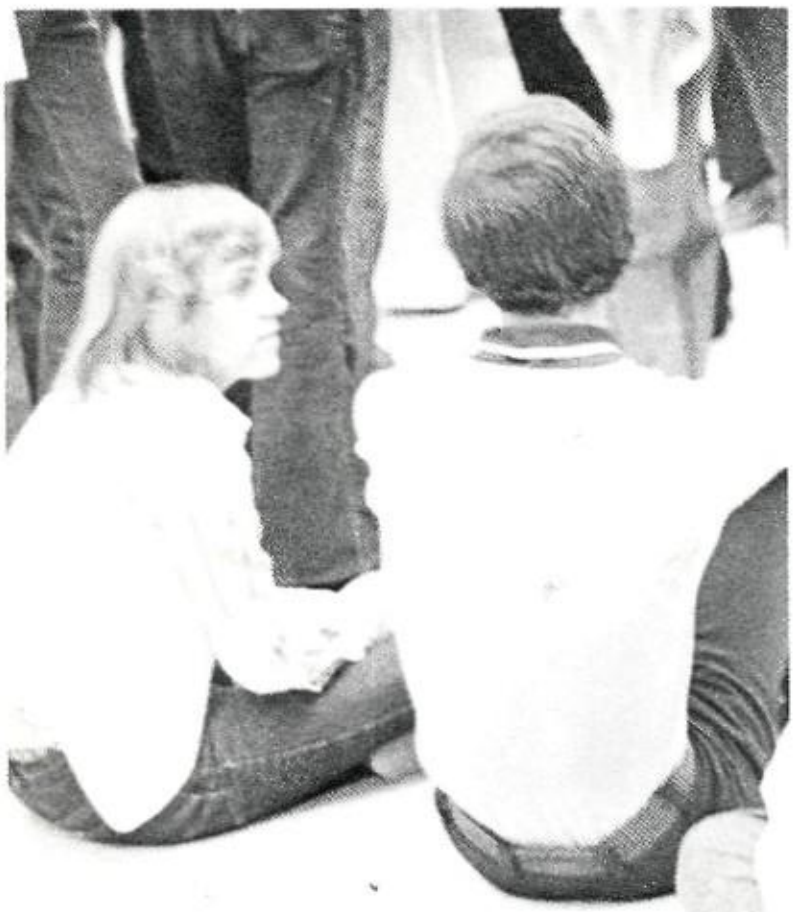
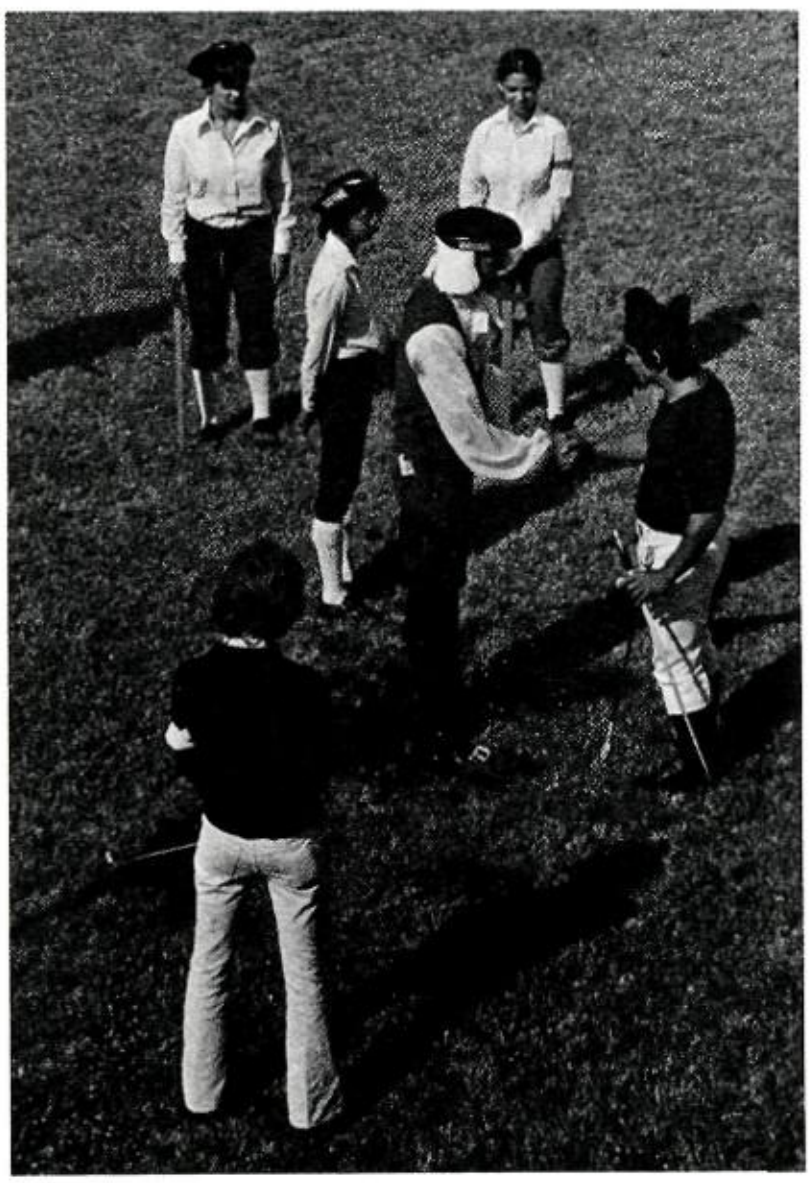
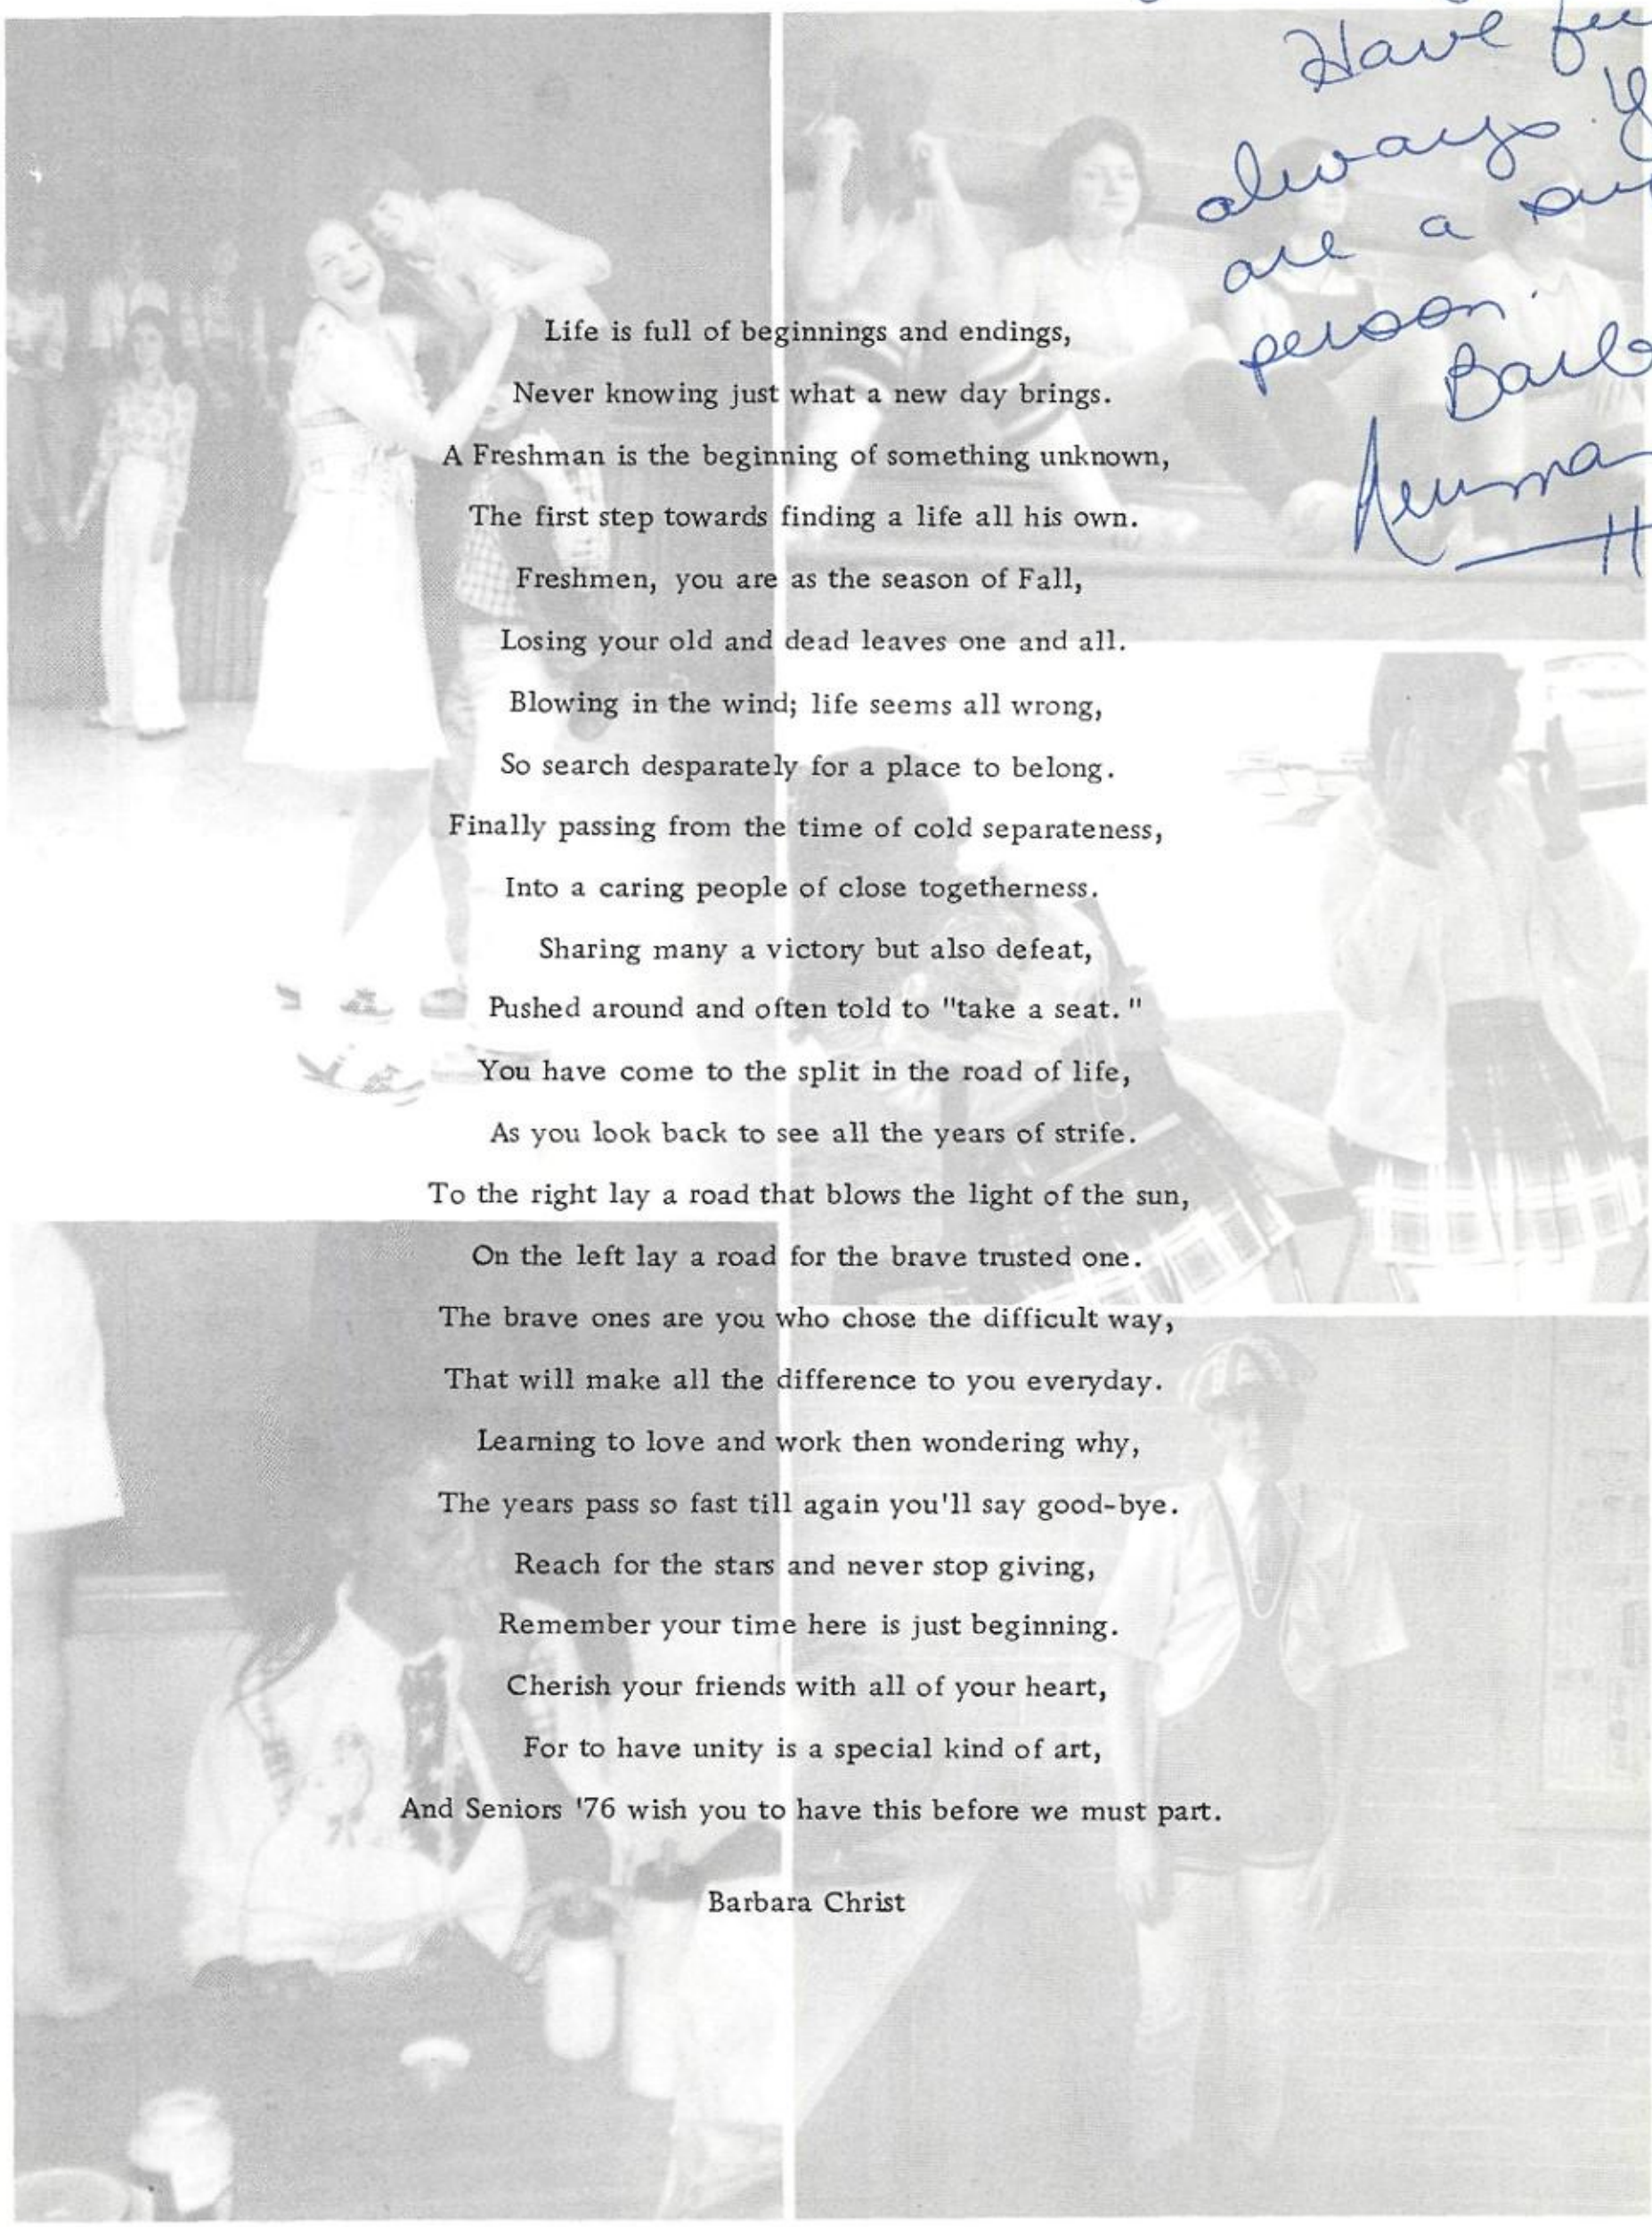
Lots of Luv
DiANNA
P.S. Say hello to Dawn.

FALL . . .

. . . Reuniting After Summer
. . . Bicentennial Celebration
. . . Freshman Freaks







Yummy,
Have fun
always You are a super person.
Barb
Herman

Life is full of beginnings and endings,
Never knowing just what a new day brings.
A Freshman is the beginning of something unknown,
The first step towards finding a life all his own.
Freshmen, you are as the season of Fall,
Losing your old and dead leaves one and all.
Blowing in the wind; life seems all wrong,
So search desparately for a place to belong.
Finally passing from the time of cold separateness,
Into a caring people of close togetherness.
Sharing many a victory but also defeat,
Pushed around and often told to "take a seat."
You have come to the split in the road of life,
As you look back to see all the years of strife.
To the right lay a road that blows the light of the sun,
On the left lay a road for the brave trusted one.
The brave ones are you who chose the difficult way,
That will make all the difference to you everyday.
Learning to love and work then wondering why,
The years pass so fast till again you'll say good-bye.
Reach for the stars and never stop giving,
Remember your time here is just beginning.
Cherish your friends with all of your heart,
For to have unity is a special kind of art,
And Seniors '76 wish you to have this before we must part.

On the night of November 7, 1975, five anxious girls stood waiting for that all important announcement, The 1975-1976 Homecoming Queen of Bishop Lynch High School. Members of the court were Frances Folzenlogen, Gayle Brown, Tracy Hartnett, Pat Collins, and Tressa Hawkins. After several agonizing minutes the moment of truth arrived. Through the roar of the crowd, Tressa Hawkins was announced as Homecoming Queen. After some smiles, tears, and flashes of cameras the game was allowed to continue and Lynch emerged victorious, defeating Bishop Dunne, 16-15.

CLUBS INCLUDE CHRISTMAS

Meeting this year on Fridays under the guidance of Mrs. McGhee and some faculty and staff members were a group of girls interested in handiwork. The members of the handiwork club had fun getting to know each other while they worked at such crafts as crochet, needlepoint, knitting, and hooking rugs. Special projects included making Christmas gifts and creating sand-art.

Each year, a group of students volunteer their free time to help the librarians, Mrs. McGhee and Mrs. Moline, keep the library in order. Taking inventory of books and magazines, running the telefocsimile machine for the students, and helping students find information were among the tasks that kept the library club busy this year. Christmas called for the annual tea with Karen Ackley's artistic talent displayed in the library's decor, and spring brought a swimming and dinner party at Mrs. Moline's to round off the year.

Some of the school's outstanding voices, in the names of the chorus and vocal ensemble, provided entertainment for many people this year. Bishop Lynch students heard members of both groups at the Bicentennial football game half-time show, a Christmas concert in the gym, and school masses.

At Christmastime the two groups, directed by Mrs. Collier, could be heard singing at concerts all over Dallas, and their music-filled spring was highlighted with a trip to San Antonio to participate in the TCIL Choir Contest.

To Bettye, Roundtree,
Thurman Sanders;

In the past 15 years we have been the best of friends
We probably will remain friends for the rest of our lives. We have had our ups + downs but we still remained friends. Good Luck
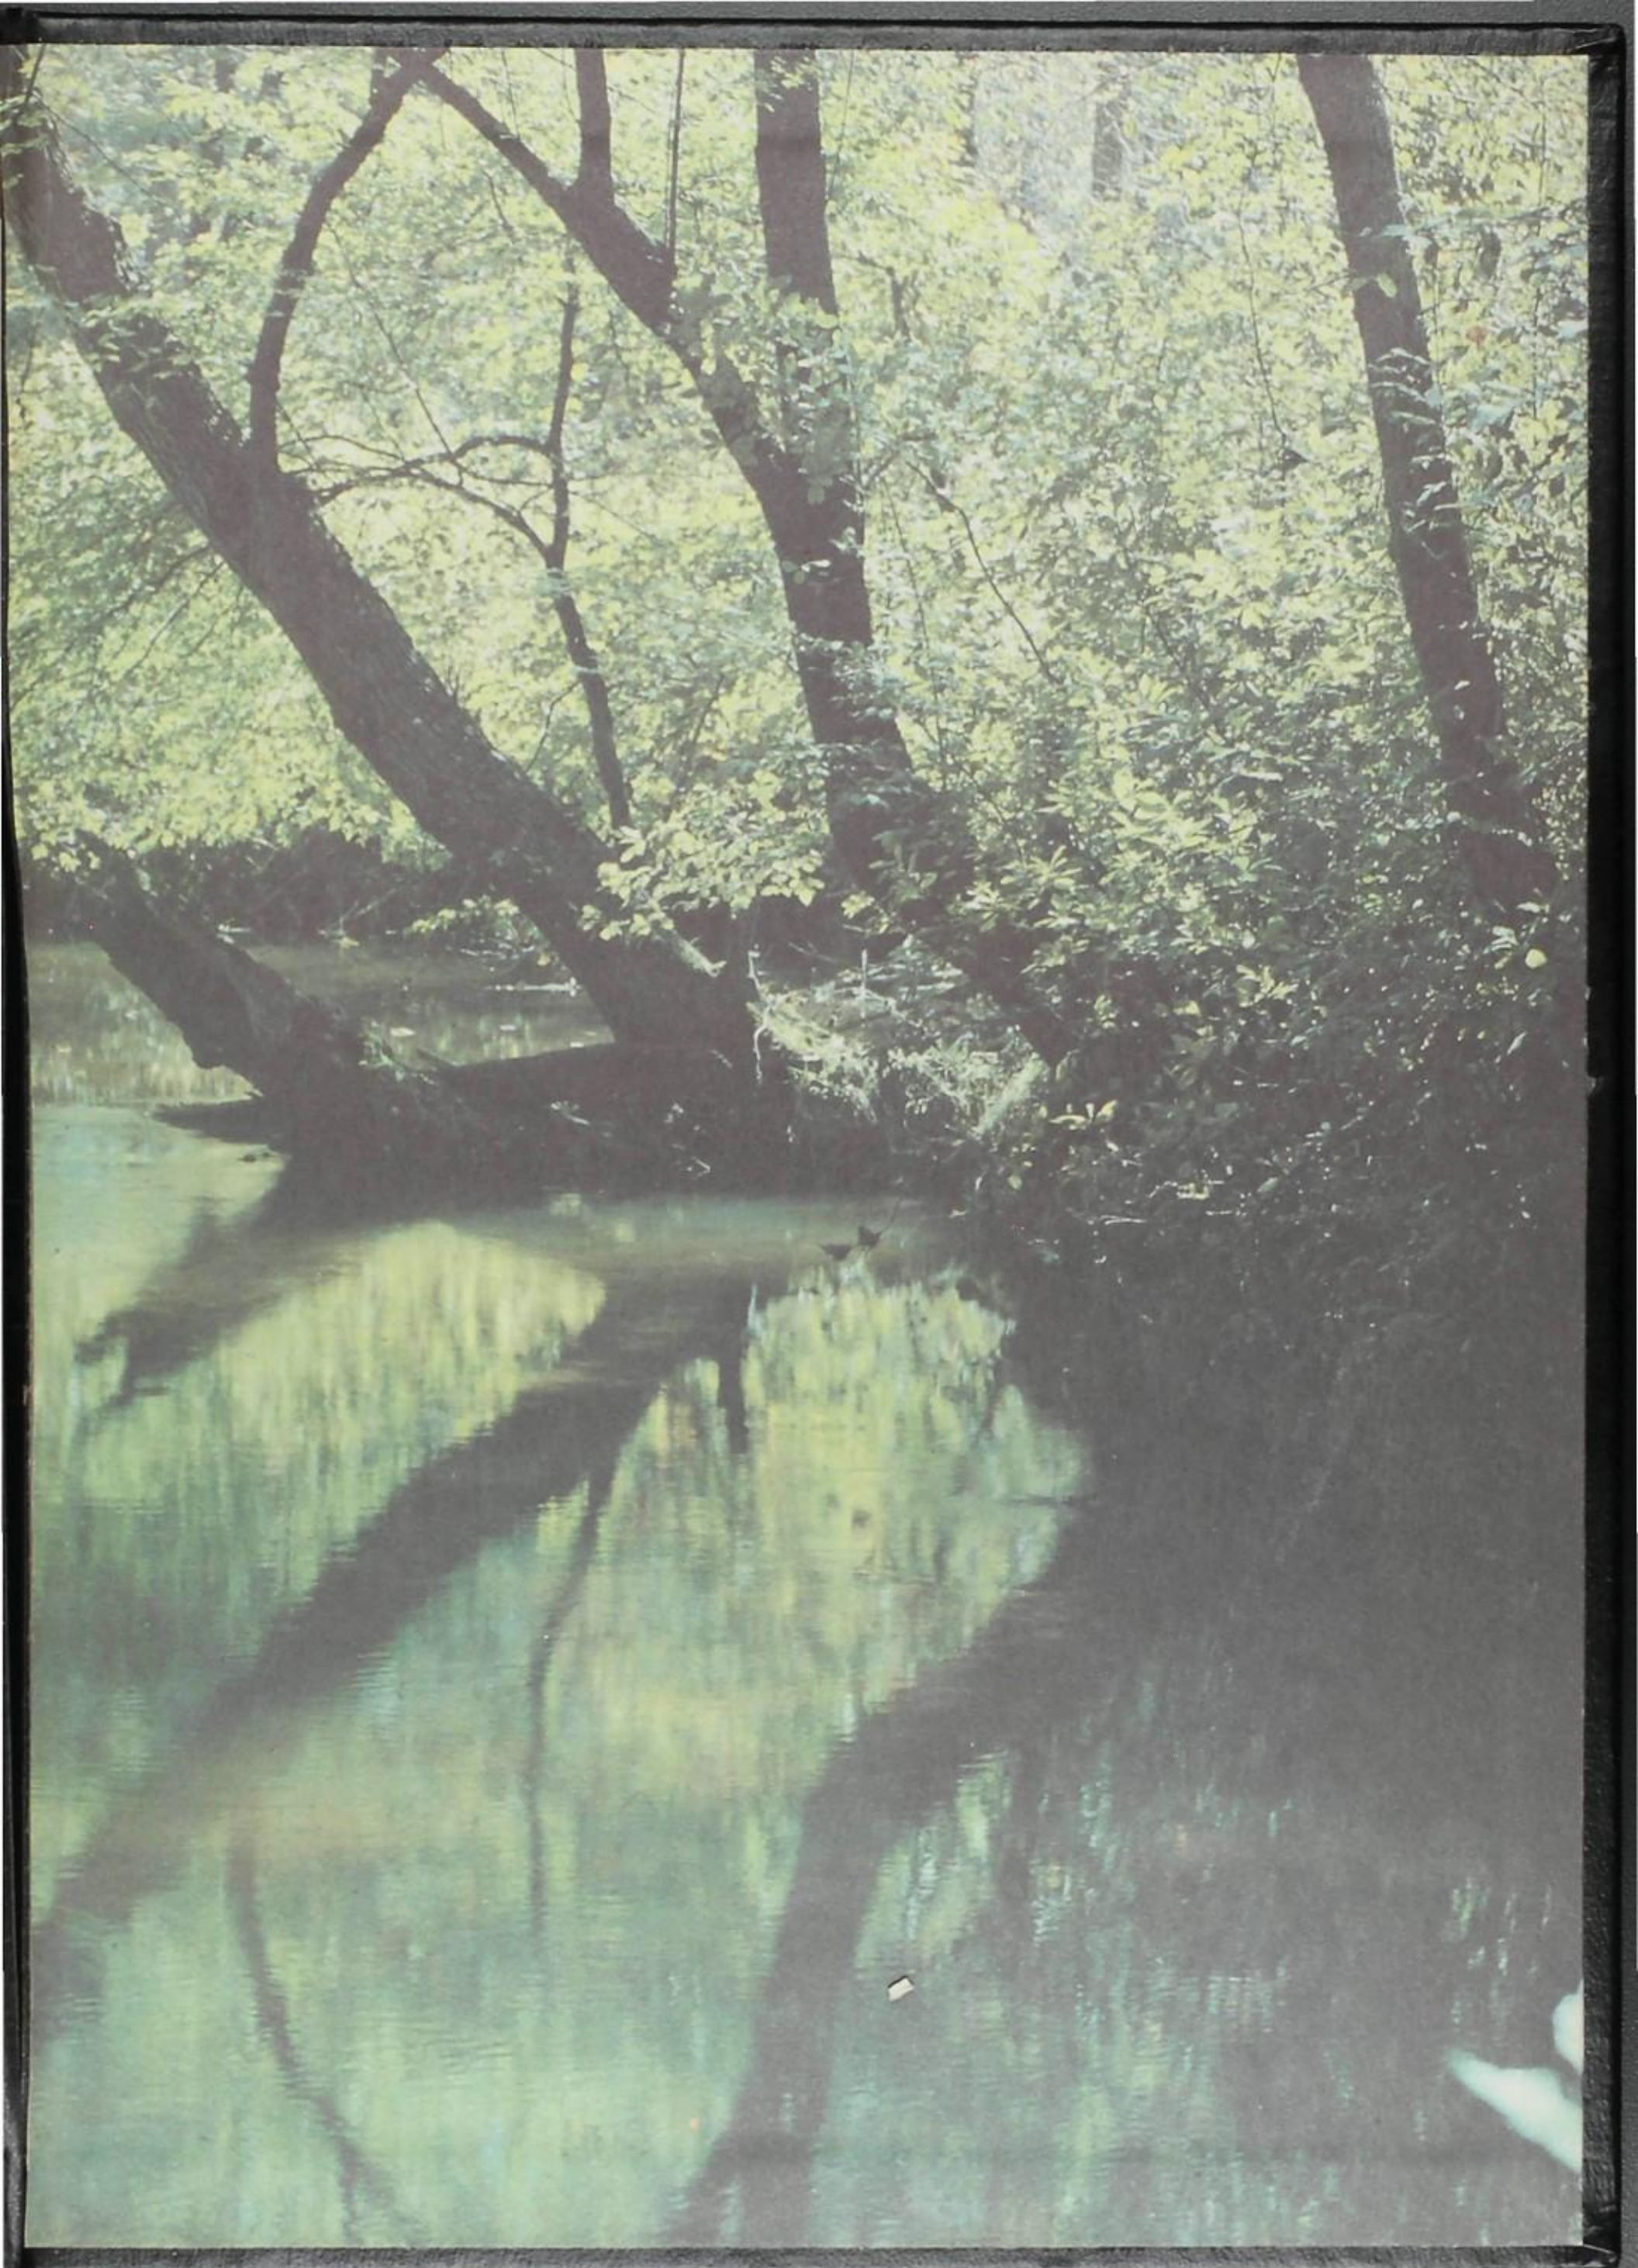
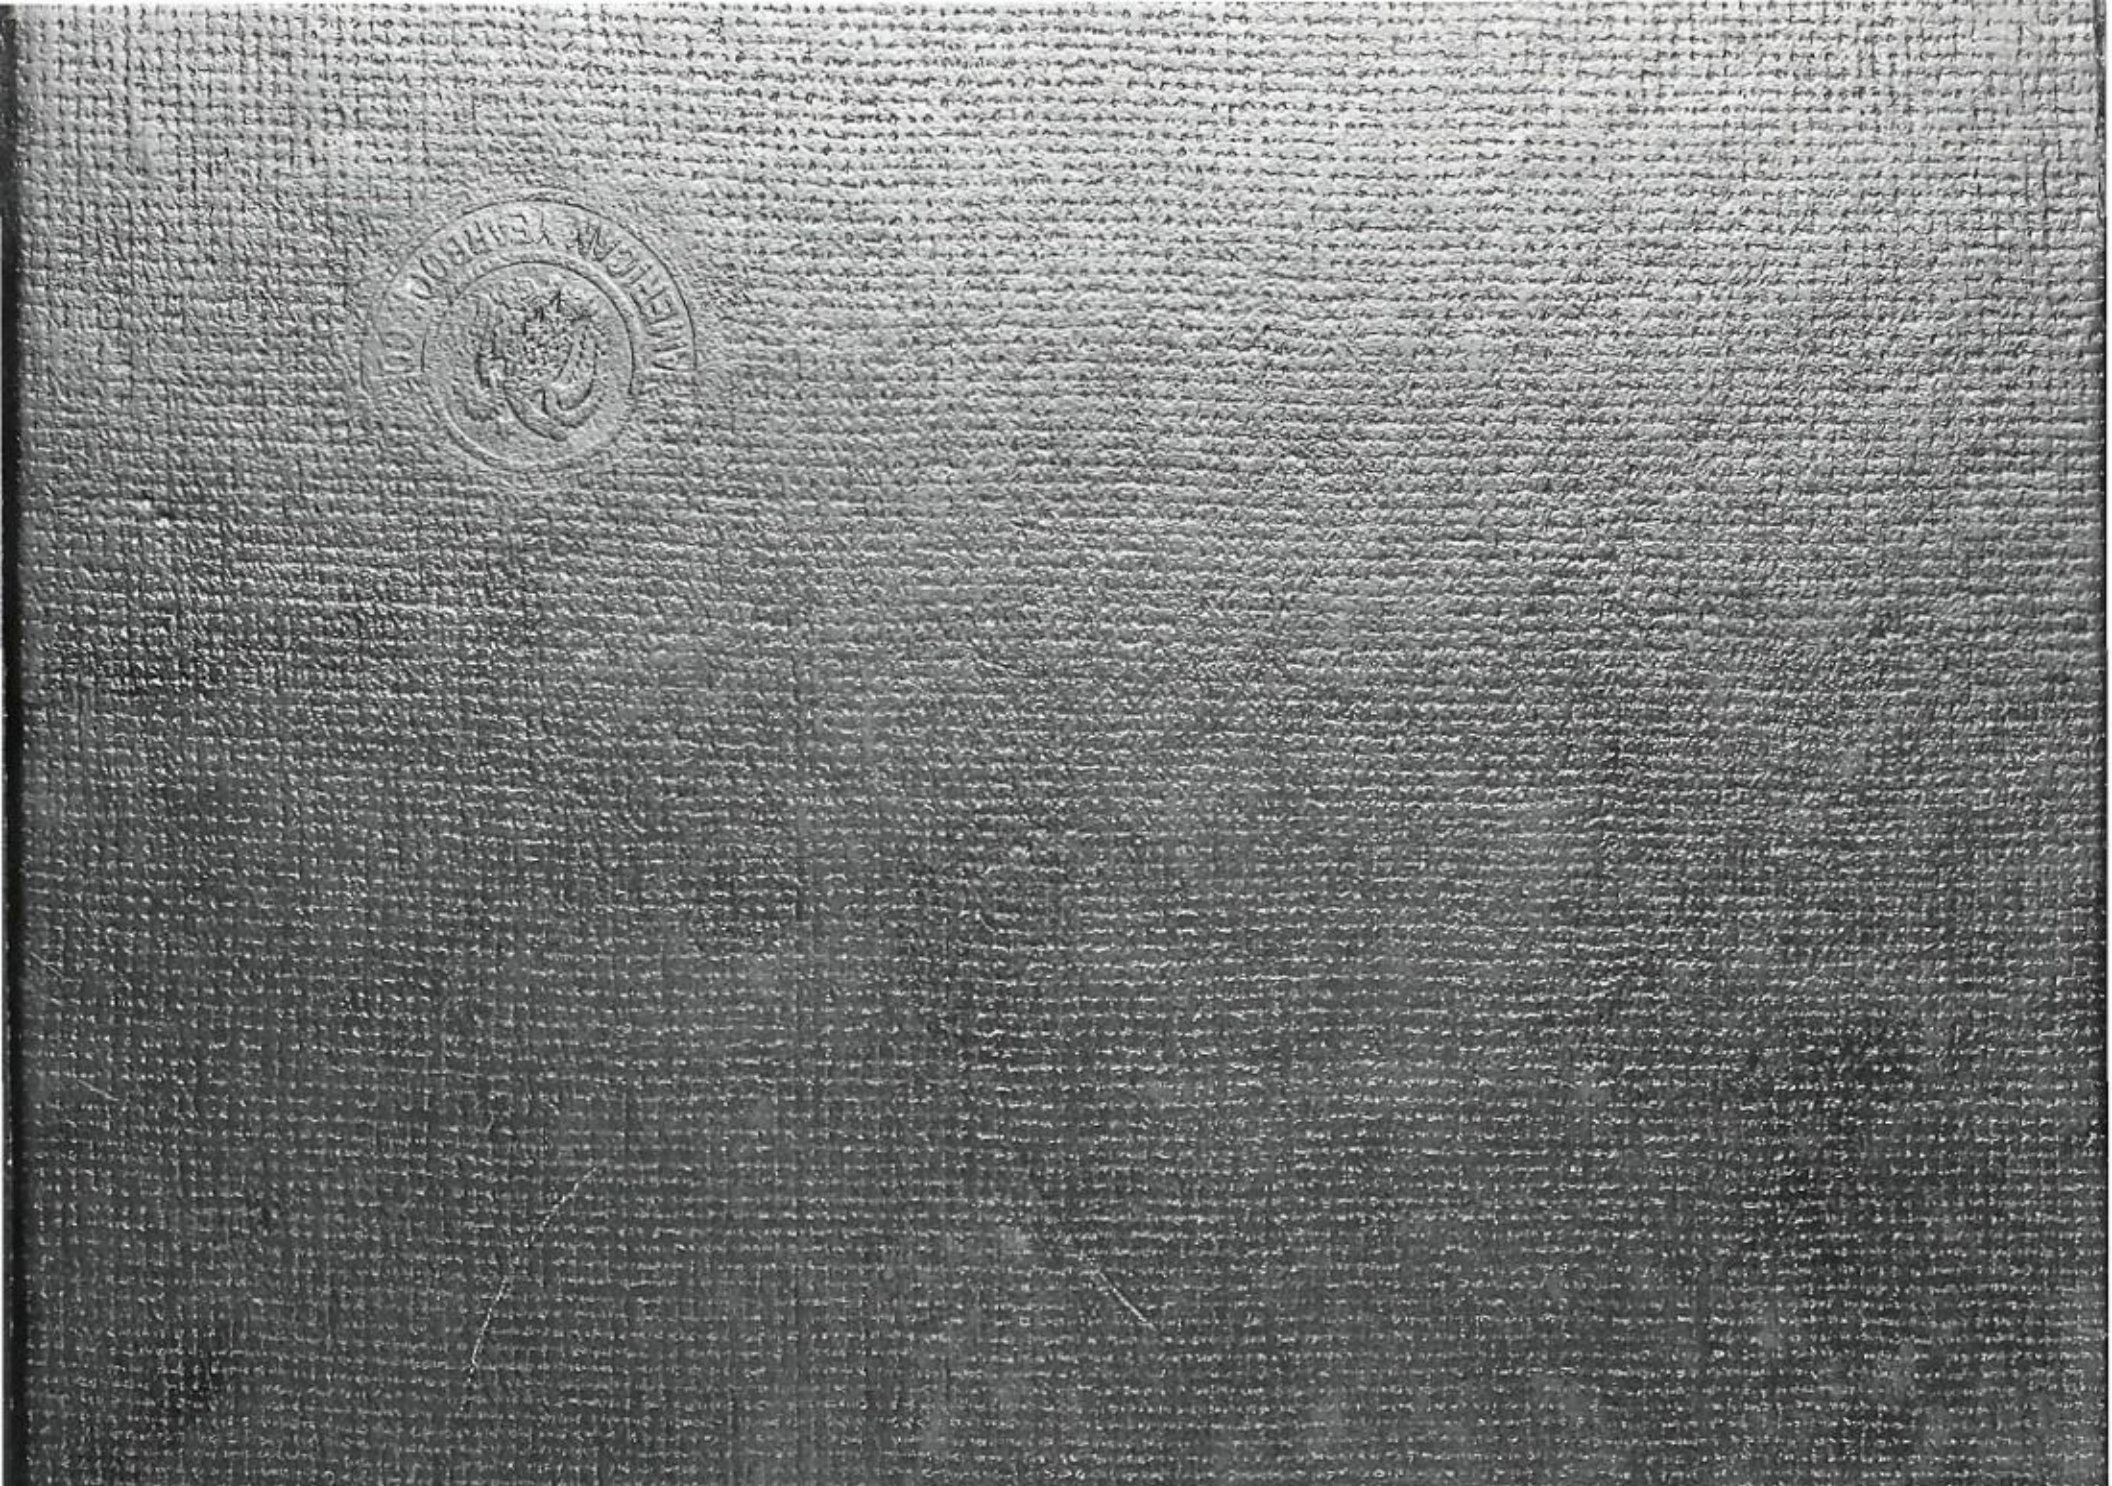
in the future.




Love Ya
